IC: Zyra inspected the T-1. He wasn't very good with machines but he could tell that it was in bad shape and might take a while to repair.

"What are we going to do?" asked Zyra.

PeabodySam

Dec 16 2008, 04:11 PM

IC: Rex frowned.

The T-1 Typhoon was in no condition to fly. It wasn't even in good enough condition to serve as a shelter from the rain. Its main propeller was starting to crack. Its windows were shattered, its paint chipping off. Holes, some small and others gaping, covered the helicopter and water leaked in. Its armor was falling to pieces. Its tail was smashed and burnt from the combined forces of wind, water, rocks, and the explosion Rex created. Also thanks to Rex's explosion, the T-1 Typhoon had no weapons whatsoever.

"If we're going to repair this thing," he told Zyra, "then it would take a long time. I don't know how the heck we're supposed to reach the Goo Caverns now."

"Yeah," agreed Hotwire. "After all, we're on Ogel Island, which is nowhere near the Goo Caverns. Can't even find a good place to sleep."

"We might be able to find shelter in Ogel's Control Centre," suggested Zyra, pointing at the large shape in the distance, which the Ice Drone identified as Ogel Island's main volcano, inside of which was Ogel's most well-known base of operations.

Rex bit his lip. "I don't know about that," he replied. "Even if the lava or the Mutant Dinos haven't gotten to it already, I'm not sure a place filled with Ogel's drones would be considered 'shelter'." He walked away from Zyra, Hotwire, and the T-1 Typhoon, trying to find a good, quiet spot where he could contact help.

First, Rex tried his radio. The only thing he heard was static. No matter how he tried to set the communication device, all he heard was static. Disgusted, he tossed aside the radio.

Then, he picked up his PDA. Remembering Frozeen's PDA frequency, he sent the following message:

AGENT FROZEEN, WE ARE STRANDED ON OGEL ISLAND BECAUSE OUR T-1 TYPHOON IS WRECKED. WE CURRENTLY HAVE NO TRANSPORTATION TO THE GOO CAVERNS. A LITTLE HELP, PLEASE? - AGENT REX

Patently, Rex waited a few minutes. Then, his PDA began beeping. He grabbed it and read the message now displayed on the screen:

AGENT REX, ARE YOU SURE THAT YOU ARE LEFT WITHOUT TRANSPORTATION? OR ARE YOU JUST AFRAID TO GO INLAND? FIND OGEL'S CONTROL CENTER IF YOU HAVEN'T ALREADY, AND LOCATE THE TROUBLE TRAIN. ASK YOUR ICE DRONE FOR DIRECTIONS IF YOU NEED THEM - THAT'S WHY WE PUT YOU AND GREYBEARD WITH HIM! THE TROUBLE TRAIN WILL BRING YOU TO THE GOO CAVERNS IN A FEW HOURS. - AGENT FROZEEN

"The 'Trouble Train'?" repeated Rex, confused. "I've never heard of that..."

"Haven't you read any of the Alpha Team Records?" Rex startled at the voice. He spun around to face the Ice Drone. "Surprising. I thought all Alpha Team agents read the Alpha Team Records... you seem like an Alpha Team agent."

Those words echoed those of another Dino Attack agent many months ago, who thought Rex was from the Alpha Team. Rex frowned and replied, "No, I'm not an Alpha Team Agent, and I've never been one, and I probably never will be one. Besides, you shouldn't sneak up on other Minifigs like that... you may get hurt."

The Ice Drone shrugged. "Anyways, the Alpha Team Records are - "

" - records of everything about the Alpha Team and what they know of Ogel," completed Rex. "I'm not an Alpha Team agent, but I at least know what the records are."

"Then I'm surprised that you don't know that when Ogel held numerous Alpha Team agents hostage, Dash, Charge, Radia, and Tee Vee were on this island and snuck aboard the Trouble Train to get to the Goo Caverns, where they rescued Charge and Cam," explained the Ice Drone. "The Trouble Train is a red-black underground monorail train that serves as transportation between Ogel Island and the Goo Caverns. I'm not sure if it still works, even after the Dino Attack, but if what your Alpha Team agent friend says is true, then you guys better find it."

"What about you?" asked Rex.

The Ice Drone backed away and smiled nervously. "Me? I'm through with this mission! My orders were to take you to the Goo Caverns. By bringing you guys this far, then directing you to the Trouble Train... I'm sure that counts as taking you to the Goo Caverns. Good luck, I suppose..." With that, the Ice Drone ran off. Rex watched him go, then made his way back to the T-1 Typhoon to tell the others about this.

Hotwire turned to Rex as they were walking. "So what exactly is this Dr. Rex guy trying to accomplish with all this?" he asked. "Did he have something to do with Shadowtech?"

"Shadowtech was a joke compared to Dr. Rex," Rex replied. "All they did was copy our equipment and terrorize the cities."

"But did you ever think there could have been a connection? Maybe -"

At this moment there was a rumble and a rocketplane soared toward the island and set down a few hundred yards from the wreck of the T-1.

OOO: Cyberstrike3000x? You want to come back to this RPG, despite not having been here for over two years? Well, guess what? Welcome back! Anytime! The more old players that come back, the better this RPG seems!

... that wasn't an insult to newer players, it was just that there aren't that many new players joining, leaving this RPG with only myself, TC01, and the newer players. With the older players (CoKK, Cohrii, and now hopefully you) coming back, this RPG is no longer forced to work with only a few members, but now a wider range of experienced members!

IC: Rex watched a few Dino Attack Agents climb out of the rocket. One was David from earlier; two others Rex recognized as Zenna and Alpha. As soon as he was out, David insisted they were brought to Ogel's control tower. "Ah, yes," Rex replied. "That would have been our meeting point if you did not arrive so soon. However, now that you're here, we probably don't need to go the control tower. Instead, I suspect we have to go for the basement instead."

"Then why suggest the control tower in the first place?" asked Zenna.

"I didn't suggest it," Rex replied, glancing at Zyra who sent David the PDA message.

Zyra shrugged. "I supposed that, since it was a tower and that they were in a rocket, it would be a good place for us to meet up, before locating the Trouble Train."

"Well then," nodded Hotwire. "Let us continue." With that, the group of Dino Attack agents made their way inland, towards the volcano. Inside was Ogel's Control Centre, and the top of the tallest tower - Ogel's control tower - emerged from the volcano's mouth. Only one thing separated the Dino Attack agents from their destination...

A massive swamp-filled jungle. Most likely swarming with Mutant Dinos.

OOO: ... yeah, I'd probably post a longer IC, but I don't have much time, so this is it. BTW, don't try to say "Then, they were at the volcano" in the next few posts - let's spend a little bit of time in the jungle.

Dec 20 2008, 01:57 PM

IC: "I have had experience about jungles." said David.

Lewa And Axalara

Dec 20 2008, 02:43 PM

IC: "How long do you think it will take to cross the jungle?" asked Zyra.

Cohrii

Dec 20 2008, 03:17 PM

IC: David surveyed the jungle. "Probably a couple of hours, if we don't run into any obstacles."

"Aye, but the jungle itself be an obstacle," Greybeard pointed out wryly.

"I meant things like huge snakes, patrolling drones, or mutant dinos," said David.

"Actually," Rex cut in, "Ogel is supporting Dino Attack for the time being, so drones might not be so much a problem, if we can explain the situation."

Bart Helmutson suddenly looked nervous. "D-did you say...giant snakes?" he asked, quivering in his boots.

"Ye be an odd one, matey," remarked Greybeard. "Afraid of snakes and heights, but precious little else, aye?"

"Maybe you watched Snakes On A Plane one too many times, eh Helmie?" quipped Hotwire.

"No, once was more than enough," 'Helmie' said, shuddering.

imperial officer

Dec 21 2008, 02:24 PM

IC: "We do not need to worry about snakes," said David "With this torch, they will want to get away!". 'Helmie' gave a sigh of relief.

Cohrii

Dec 21 2008, 05:13 PM

OOC: You meant 'torch,' right?

IC: "It's not snakes we have to worry about so much as dinos," Rex pointed out. He suddenly regretted blowing up all the weapons; all they had between them was Greybeard's cutlass, and the laser rifle Hotwire had used to save Helmie, which Hotwire still had with him. "Were there any weapons on the rocket besides that torch?" he asked David.

"I think so," David replied. He and ~~Zenna~~ Alpha ran back to the rocket and returned in a few minutes with two small sonic screamers and a cosmotronic ray.

IC: Once landed, Reptile stepped out. The cockpit hatches opened, and the pirate Coral and the DA Agent Tail stepped out also. They headed to the Trident submarine, which had just surfaced and landed on the beach as well. The Aquaraider Commander Coffee stepped out.

"Why didn't you let us finish that monstrosity?" growled Coffee. Reptile shook his head. "That was the whole point. It was strange, I was ordered to capture it. If you have a problem, you can take it up with Dino Attack Headquarters, and indirectly Alpha Team Headquarters. Your lot of underwater pirates can't just going around doing whatever it wants!" The words erupted from Reptile, even as he tried to stop them. He breathed deeply, and calmed down.

"Sorry. Now what did you have to share?" He listened to Coffee report on the happenings around Ogel Island. Reptile nodded, and asked him how he knew this. Coffee replied that an Aquaraider ship had surfaced near Ogel Island to neutralize a Mutant Aquatic Dinosaur that might have made a run for the underwater base. That was when it detected what was going on. Reptile nodded.

"Tail, Coral, get bac..." he began. However, looking around, he saw that Coral was not there. Frowning, he typed a message into his PDA unit. Reptile to all Viking Island forces. Provisionary Agent Coral is missing, he may have attempted treason or been captured by a Dinosaur. If seeing him, apprehend/rescue him immediately. He began again.

"Okay, then... I guess I'll fly. Tail, get into the other cockpit. We're heading for Ogel Island."

Cohrii

Dec 22 2008, 01:27 PM

OOO: Maybe you should just go straight to the Goo Caverns, TCO1. That's where we're all headed.

IC: Rex quickened his walk. "We'd better catch up to them. In a jungle like this, large groups are safer."

Suddenly, they heard a tree branch crack a little way ahead, and then a cry.

"That sounded like Zenna!" David exclaimed. The group started running through the trees. Rex and Hotwire were in the lead with Zyra and David close behind. Greybeard had fallen back while trying exasperatedly to get a panting and breathless Helmie to run faster.

They burst into the clearing to see Zenna lying semiconscious on the ground and Alpha backed up against a tree. He was in this awkward position because a minifig with its back to the others had a Sea Drone's spear pointed at his neck. "Funny thing, being threatened with your own weapon, hm?" the minifig was saying. Hotwire pulled out the laser rifle and pointed it at the minifig.

Alpha grinned. "Looks like the cavalry rode to the rescue!"

The minifig spun around. Hotwire's eyes widened in shock, and he lowered his weapon.

"Yeah," said Hotwire. "Kotua and Slash have disappeared, but fortunately Shadowtech has been taken out."

"That's a relief," said Kat. "They were the ones who put me here in the first place; they figured between the dinos, Ogel's drones, and the jungle itself, I wouldn't last. Incidentally, sorry about your two friends. I assumed they were drones in disguise - the drones have been using all sorts of tricks to capture me." She dropped the spear and helped Zenna to her feet.

"Well, that shouldn't be a problem anymore," Rex put in. "Ogel is working with DA for the time being."

"Are you sure he isn't a drone?" Kat asked Hotwire.

"No, I'm actually a dinosaur," Rex said. He laughed when he saw the confusion on Kat's face. "It's a long story."

Dec 22 2008, 08:37 PM

OOC: Okay. I'll edit that later.

IC: The T-1 Typhoon under the command of Reptile was hurtling at maximum speeds for the Goo Caverns. He needed to replenish his stock of spheres anyway, so it would apprehend two lizards with one stasis capsule. Reptile checked his calculations for a new project he was working on. It would mean expanding the internal core volume of his T-1 by 5%, but he could do that in two seconds onboard. And there were certainly plenty of spare parts...

Nearly twenty minutes later, the small hybrid version of a Street Sprinter was completed. Only, this was more armored and had more weapons. It was 10% smaller but 20% stronger than the ordinary Street Sprinter. Reptile smiled, and headed back into the cockpit.

Elsewhere:

Coral fired his stolen laser at a Viking guarding one of the Skr-Ok docks that had been liberated. He fell, and Coral aimed at the other one. "All of you... you're just a fancier type of pirate, aren't you? What is this clan of yours giving you to do their work for them? If you work for me... my crew always gets a cut of the profits of my raids," Coral said. He continued to talk about how piracy was much more rewarding than doing evil things. You could do both at the same time, as well as good things. Coral continued to talk, and then he began by giving each member of his new crew some of the massive reward he had received following the last mission he was on.

Coral stepped onboard a Viking boat, which had been refitted with modern weapons above the oar lines, and more modern ship-building tactics. It did not take long to make this ship look like one of his old Pirate ships again. He figured that this way, he could earn some money, help Dino Attack (he couldn't do it from the air, but on a ship he could), and get back into piracy when the Mutant Dino crisis ended. Chuckling, he gave orders.

Atton Rand

IC: Rex looked out through the canopy of the trees. Indeed, he saw that the volcano was much closer than it was before, though probably still an hour's walk away. "She's right," nodded Rex. "If we keep going, we can get there before we hit any more trouble."

He couldn't help but glance at Kat, who just a moment ago had beaten Zenna down and had Alpha backed against a tree. Ever since the joke about the dinosaur, he noticed Kat had been staring at him oddly, with a bit of suspicion in her eyes. When she inquired as to what his "long story" was, he decided against it, because it truly was a long story, one that was near unbelievable, and one that wasn't really important now.

"The sooner, the better," grumbled Greybeard, who was catching his breath. "I be getting in me years. I never be fond of traveling, especially in rain, or in jungles... what I really want right now be a roof over me head and a nice, warm, cozy fire burnin' in the fireplace..."

As if in answer, the group suddenly was hit by a wave of heat. Several trees were ablaze. The flames licked at neighboring trees, threatening to set them on fire as well. Several liters of yellow liquid were sent flying in the air towards the Dino Attack agents. They scattered as the acid hit the ground, burning the grass and eating away at the soil.

Rex nodded at Hotwire, and they each grabbed a Sonic Screamer. David waved his torch madly. Greybeard loaded his handy pistol. Kat tightened her grip on the Sea Drone Spear. Zenna, Alpha, and Bart 'Helmie' Helmutson all tried to grab the Cosmotronic Ray at once. Alpha was the quickest, so Alpha and 'Helmie' only grabbed sticks which they lit with David's torch.

The first to spring was an orange-skinned Mutant Lizard, who snapped at the agents before unleashing another fire blast. The Dino Attack agents dodged the flames. Greybeard opened fire, and although his pistol was old-fashioned, the bullets wounded the creature's leg.

Then, a yellow-skinned Mutant Lizard emerged from the trees, acid dripping from its toothy maw. 'Helmie' waved his lit branch at the mutant, whose response was spitting at the helmsman. 'Helmie' dodged, but the acid hit Rex's Sonic Screamer, which dissolved like butter. Another fire blast from the orange-skinned Mutant Lizard encased the Dino Attack agents in a wall of flame, surrounding them and closing in upon them.

"You just had to mention the nice, warm, cozy fire..." muttered Hotwire.

Atton Rand

Dec 22 2008, 09:15 PM

OOC: that's a bit strange, fire in rain?

IC: Zenna looked around, she had to figure out a way out of the flames, she noticed a small opening that was quickly being narrowed by flames, she ran through it just as it started to close, "I've got to get help" she said looking back at the flames

PeabodySam

Dec 22 2008, 10:19 PM

OOC: You know what's even stranger? Fire underwater. Besides, fire occurs plenty of times in rain (hint: lightning), so it wouldn't be unusual for there to be a large fire even when it's raining. If it's hurricane weather, that may be a different story, but this is just a normal rainstorm... I think.

IC: "What the - ?" Rex cried. "Zenna, don't!" But it was too late. Zenna dived through a small opening in the flames just as it closed. Either she was caught in the flames as they closed, or else she was trapped outside the wall of flames... with a couple of angry Mutant Lizards.

"Your 'friend' isn't particularly helpful," muttered Kat. "At her first opportunity, she abandoned us to die, and is probably roasted by those flames, or by the guy who made them. She isn't even bothering to turn back and help us!"

"Well then," Rex replied, scooping up handfuls of the soggy dirt that they stood on, "we have to help ourselves." He began tossing the clumps of soil at the fire wall. Beside him, Hotwire and Greybeard began following suit. Alpha held tightly onto his Cosmotronic Ray, knowing that as soon as the fire was put out, they'd need to deal with the two Mutant Lizards.

"If we are going to get any help," 'Helmie' spoke, "then let's hope that it comes soon! A T-1 Typhoon would be nice right about now. Or maybe even just a normal fire engine. Remember those? They used to be all over LEGO City before the Dino Attack - "

'Helmie' never finished his statement. Rex caught a glimpse of a whitish orb flying towards them. It seemed strangely familiar somehow. It hit the flames, and instantly the fire turned to ice. Through the frozen flames, Rex could vaguely see a Scorpion Orb Launcher and two Snow Crawlers moving towards them...

imperial officer

Dec 23 2008, 02:41 AM

IC: David gave a sharp look at Kat. "If you knew her, you wouldn't say that. Of course she wouldn't leave us to die. I don't know what's got into some of you. Alpha managed to run more than is possible, 'Helmie' is afraid of snakes and Kat is, is, is, an Insulter." he managed to say, "I would rather be a Dino like Rex, or even an Ice Drone, than be stuck with them all my life!"
OOC: I have seen a fire in one of the heaviest storms I've seen.

PeabodySam

Dec 23 2008, 06:27 AM

IC: Rex watched through the frozen flames as the Scorpion Orb Launcher and the Snow Crawlers began firing more of those orbs at some of the trees that were on fire. Kat jabbed forward with the Sea Drone Spear, and the ice wall that surrounded the agents shattered, freeing them once more. Zenna was nowhere to be seen, and the two Mutant Lizards had their attention on the insectoid vehicles.

The fire-breathing one blasted more flames at the Scorpion Orb Launcher, but the fire was frozen into ice by another one of those orbs. A second orb hit the Mutant Lizard, freezing it in a block of ice.

The acid-spitting one spat its acid at the cockpit of one Snow Crawler. It burned right through the Ice Drone pilot and through the controls. More acid hit the vehicle's legs, rendering the Snow Crawler unable to move. The Mutant Lizard repeated this attack on the second Snow Crawler, killing the drone and disabling the vehicle.

The Scorpion Orb Launcher turned around and grabbed the Mutant Lizard with its stinger. It raised the mutant high in the air, before suddenly flinging it back towards the earth. Stunned, the Mutant Lizard could not dodge as the Scorpion Orb Launcher picked it up again and flung it back down. They heard a sharp crack!, the Mutant Lizard screamed in pain, but its spinal cord had shattered, its arms, legs, and tail rendered unable to move. With that, a final orb froze the Mutant Lizard, ensuring a quiet, easy death for the paralyzed creature.

Rex, Hotwire, and the others were about to leave when they realized that the Scorpion Orb Launcher grabbed another white orb and was aiming at them. "Who are you?" spoke the Ice Drone in the cockpit. "What is your business here on this island? You have three seconds to answer, before you end up just like these lizards!"

OOC: I'd suggest starting at Dino Attack HQ. From there, you could go to Lego city to fight Dinos, and then work your way into the story (if you wanted).

I'm just going to send Reptile your way with the intention of joining up at Ogel Island. However, I have no idea how to do it without changing what's happening now. So PeabodySam (note: not anyone else with him) has permission to play as Reptile. I'm working on Coral's story.

Reptile ran a radar sweep of the region around Ogel Island to confirm it was okay, and detected both Mutant activity and Drone activity. However, then two Pterodons flew out from the clouds, discharging lightning bolts at the T-1. The ship rocked as Reptile brought it around and lined up the forward Voltaic (OOC: probably wrong, but whatever) Cannon and anti-Pterodon weapons. In the other cockpit, Tail pressed down hard as soon as the barrels lined up, and the two Pterodons hurtled downwards, crashing into Ogel Island below.

Coral's raider reached Pirate Island, where it laid down dock. Coral, surrounded by Viking guards, emerged carefully and looked around. Now, if I remember correctly, the main docks and fortifications were right here..., and there they were. Most of them were ruined, but Dino Attack had deployed several Fire Hammers here via airship that had guarded five of the larger ships in dock. One of them was a Renegade Runner, and Coral chuckled mirthlessly. It belonged to one of his pirate enemies, Brickblade, who's preferred weapon was, ironically, a brick. Brickblade had three smaller ships under the command of this one. Raiding it couldn't hurt.

"Men. Salvage that ship there for parts and install them on our ship. Move!" he snapped.

David stepped forward, clenching his fists when Rex walked in between them.

"Both of you, calm down! This sort of bickering will get us nowhere!"

Kat relaxed a bit but continued to glare daggers at David, who turned his back and walked back over to where Zenna, Alpha, and Zyra were resting.

One day, I stumbled upon his lab on the way back to my house. Her beckoned me in for a cup of orange juice, when in fact it was a test tube fluid. Once I drank it, I felt weird. The next thing I knew, I was back at my house. I finally discovered that I had been the result of a crazy experiment of super speed. I could go anywhere in a fraction of a second. When the Dino Attacks started happening, the entire population of minifigs moved to Antarctica, where they made me second-in-command of the Alpha Team. Then I decided to join Dino Attack Agency, to use my speed for defeating dinosaurs. Hope that answers your question, David!"

IC: They didn't have to wait long. Soon Rex, Hotwire, Zyra, Kat, and 'Helmie' reached the clearing. Kat walked over to where David was sitting.

"Sorry for flying off the handle earlier. I'm still just sorta high-strung after not having any contact with people for months. No hard feelings?" She extended her hand, and David shook it.

IC: "I understand." said David. Karen recovered soon and the group continued.

One hour later.....

They finally reached the base. "Where exactly is the Trouble Train?" asked David.
